

WELCOME TO THE BRIDGETTINE GUEST HOUSE

The Bridgettine Guest House in England is located in the beautiful countryside of Buckinghamshire and is an outstanding building in Tudor style, close to the village of Iver Heath, which is surrounded by woods and picnic areas. Iver Heath is a lovely location in the wonderful countryside not very far from the well-known Uxbridge Terminal of the Southwest line of the London Underground.

OPEN TO ALL

In the year 1931, a group of five sisters, arrived at Iver Heath, England, sent by their Mother Foundress, Blessed Mother Elisabeth Hesselblad from the Bridgettine Mother House in Rome, to open a house of prayer and hospitality to all.

It was a small, wooden house of gracious Tudor style, standing on the quiet Fulmer Common Road, running out of Iver Heath. A high hedge shielded the house and garden from the road. Behind it are woodlands and a country lane leading to the historic little village of Fulmer.

Eventually the house was enlarged to accommodate more guests, and has had an added attraction of a conference centre. In 2012 - 2013 the house has been refurbished. The house is open to all, welcomes Christian and non-Christian, also all nationalities and is open to all through the year.
